

Parent Refusal to Provide FAFSA Information Form

If you have a situation where your parent refuses to provide their information on the FAFSA and refuses to provide you with financial support please complete and submit the attached form for a decision to apply for an Unsubsidized loan only at the discretion of a financial aid administrator. If your parents refuse to sign and date a statement to this effect, you must get documentation from a third party, such as a teacher, counselor, cleric, or court.

Financial Aid regulations state the family has primary responsibility for meeting the educational costs of students. Dependent students are required by law to provide parental information and signature(s) to be considered for financial aid. When parents refuse to provide their information on the FAFSA there is an exception that allows the student to apply for an Unsubsidized Loan ONLY, at the discretion of a financial aid administrator.

Instructions for completing the “Parent Refusal to Provide Information Form

When you completed and submitted your 2024-25 Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) your answers to the dependency status questions identified you as a dependent student. This means you were required to provide parental information. You indicated you have an unusual circumstance and were unable to provide parental information.

Under Federal law, to the extent your family is able; they are primarily responsible for paying for your college expenses. To determine how much your family can afford to pay toward your college expenses, we must collect your financial information and your parents’ financial information.

However, Federal law allows for some exceptions, if you have an unusual circumstance.

The following are examples of some unusual circumstances where you may submit your FAFSA without providing parental information (a request for a dependency override may be warranted in these cases—Inquire at the Financial Aid Office):

- o Your parents are incarcerated
- o You have left home due to an abusive family environment
- o You have circumstances which have resulted in family estrangement
- o You do not know where your parents are and are unable to contact them (and you have not been adopted)

But not all situations are considered an unusual circumstance.

The following are situations that would not be considered an unusual circumstance:

- o Your parents do not want to provide their information on your FAFSA
- o Your parents refuse to contribute to your college expenses
- o Your parents do not claim you as a dependent on their income taxes
- o You do not live with your parents

If you do not have a special circumstance and are unable to provide parental information you normally do not qualify for federal student aid.

However, in situations where your parents refuse to provide their information on the FAFSA and refuse to provide you with any financial support, there is an exception that allows a student to submit the FAFSA without parental information and apply for an Unsubsidized Stafford Loan only at the discretion of a financial aid administrator. (Please note that the Unsubsidized Loan is the ONLY federal aid available to the student under this exception).
